

Business Valuation in Practice

Aim:

Valuation is everywhere in the business and accounting fields, whether it relates to M & A, financial reporting, insolvency, taxation, or the assessment of going concern assumptions for audit reporting. By the end of this workshop participants will be in a position to:

1. Effectively challenge valuation exercises received by third-parties;
2. Run their own basic valuation exercises;
3. Better understand how everyday managerial decisions, affect corporate value;
4. Become better-rounded professionals and increase their personal value in a competitive job market.

Objectives:

The learning aims of this workshop, will be satisfied by enabling participants to:

1. Understand the differences between the various premises of value, how these affect the resulting value and know which one to follow in each case;
2. Understand the differences between the various valuation approaches and the methods into which these break down;
3. Know which valuation approaches are more suitable to use in each case and how to apply them.

Participant's Profile:

This workshop has been specifically developed with the average finance professional in mind: Whether you are CFO, a financial controller, a public accountant, a corporate banker, or have any other active role in the preparation, analysis and/or presentation of financial statements and/or new investment decisions, this workshop will provide you with valuable, actionable insights to use in your day-to-day work.

Lecturer's Profile:

Marios-Nicolaos Charalambous MBA, ACCA

Marios has a Maîtrise in Banking, finance and insurance, as well as an MBA, both from Université Paris 13, Nord. He is also the holder of a second postgraduate degree, in Strategic Planning & Investments, from the University of Newcastle. Finally, he is a member of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants.

He has worked in the advisory profession for nine years. He is currently a corporate finance manager in an investment firm, responsible for the performance monitoring of current investments in the CEE region, and the appraisal of new opportunities wherever these may arise.

Marios is also the author of a book on the subject of business valuations, after which this workshop is named. A copy of the latest version of his book, will be provided to all participants, for future reference.
